

ABSTRACT

Systems and methods support dental patient scheduling relating to one or more dental appliances by communicating manufacturing progress information with a patient computer over a wide area network; and performing patient scheduling when one or more

5 dental appliances reach a predetermined manufacturing progress.